ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This dissertation would not have been possible without the continued support and input of my family, friends and mentors. My deep appreciation goes to my academic supervisors; Professor Dr. Abdel Malek Ouda and Professor Dr. Mustapha Kamel El Sayed. It would always remain a source of pride that Professor Ouda graciously supervised my work, and provided in-depth insights without which the thesis would have never been the same. My sincere gratitude for Professor El Sayed goes back to my early studies as an undergraduate student at FEPS, when his insights and guidance were instrumental in my fascination with development studies. Professor El Sayed's utmost support, constructive criticism, and close supervision were foundational since the initial conceptualization of the thesis topic and till its final accomplishment.

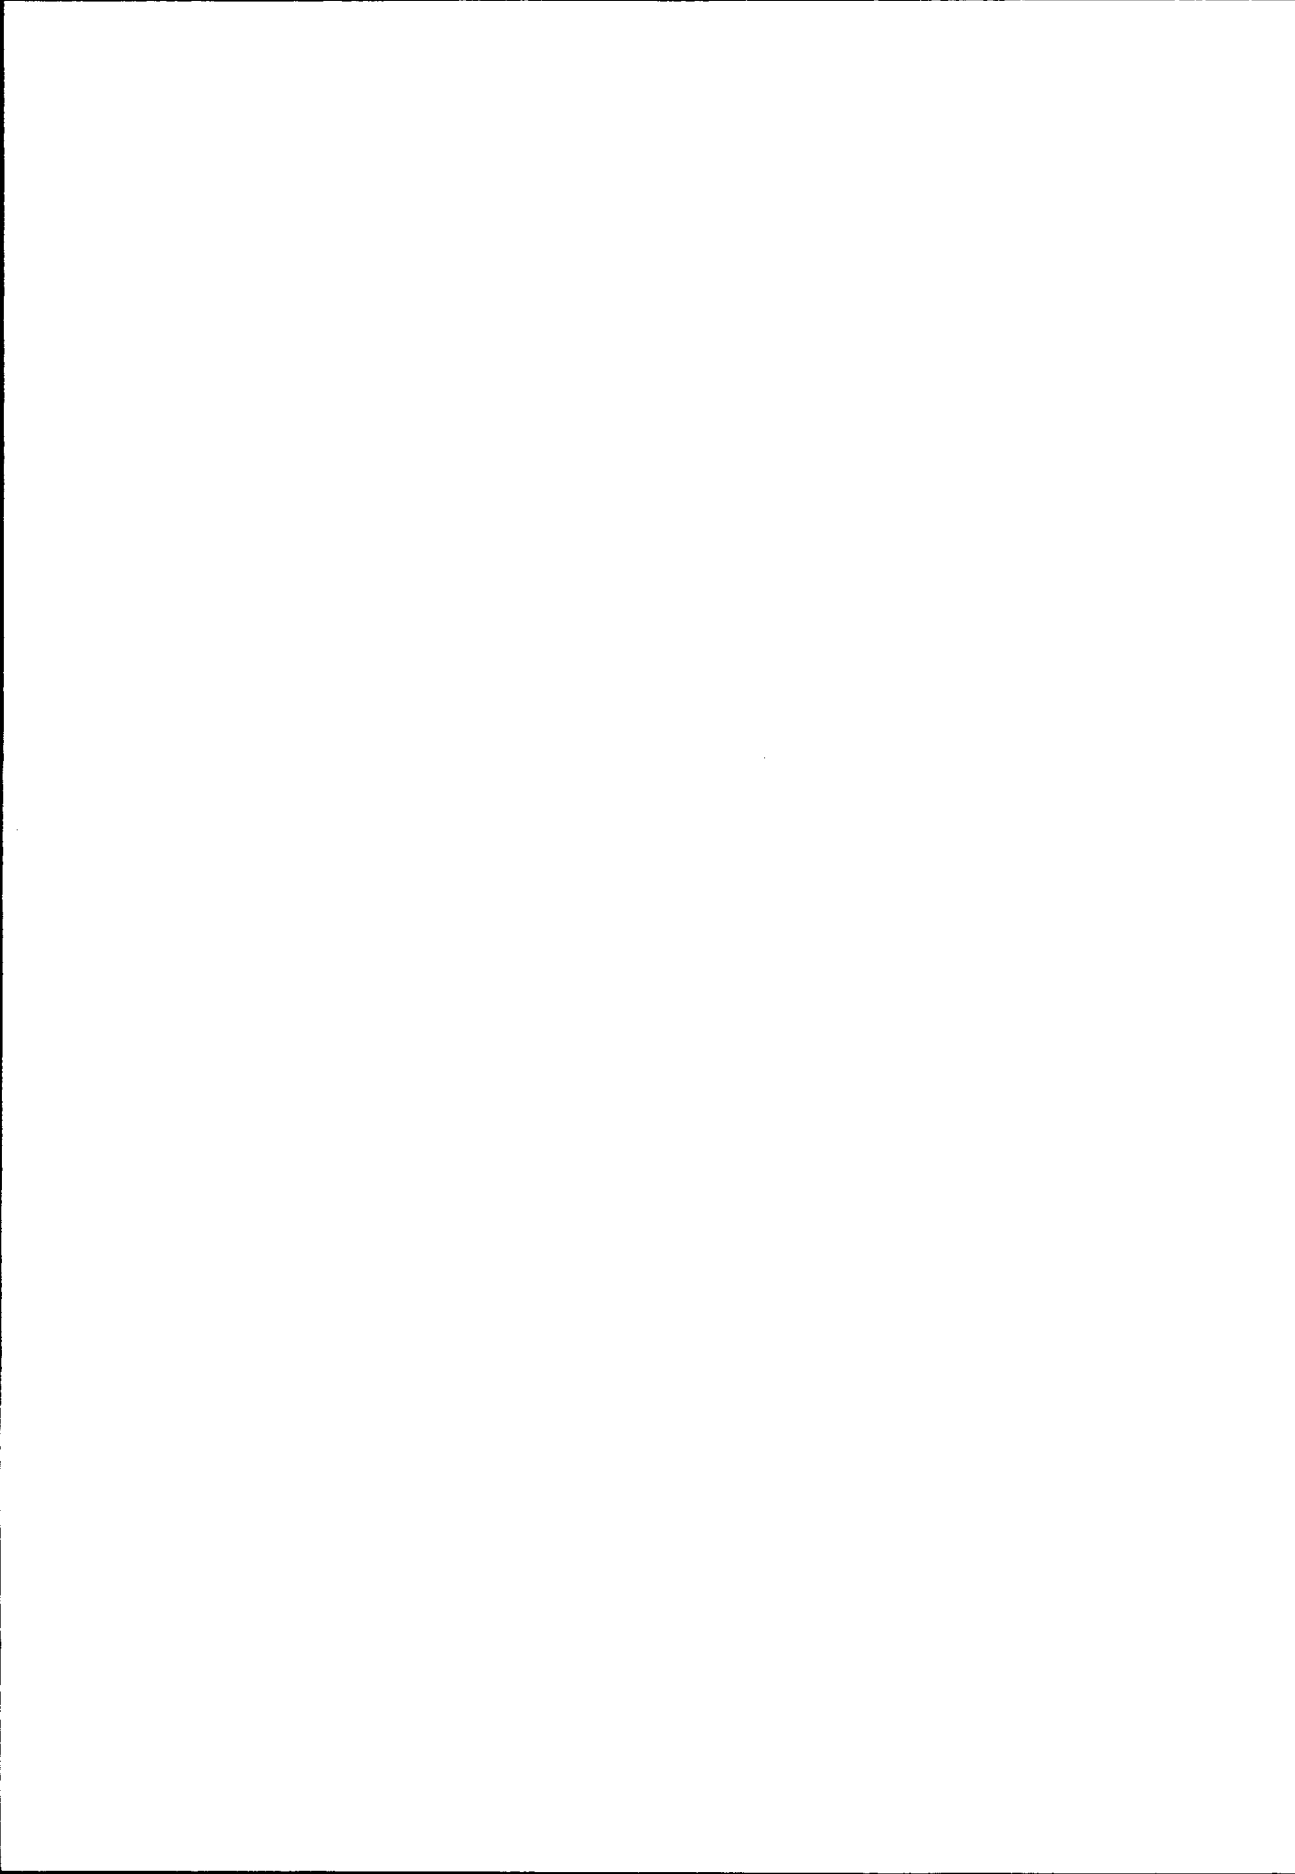

I also owe my interest in political economy and development studies which eventually led me to this field of research to my mentor at Al Ahram Center for Political and Strategic Studies (ACPSS); Dr. Mohamed El Sayed Said (RIP), and to my Professors at the Master's Program at the American University in Cairo; Professors: Dr. Sharif Elmusa, Dr. Ibrahim Elnur, Dr. Dan Tschirgi and Dr. Trevor Parfitt.

I will forever be appreciative of all my colleagues and mentors at Al Ahram Center for Political and Strategic Studies, for their continued support, and intellectual insights, special thanks and gratitude are due to Professor El Sayed Yassin and Dr. Abdel Monem Said.

I am also infinitely indebted to my friend Dr. Hala Abou-Ali, Associate Professor of Economics at the Faculty of Economics and Political Science (FEPS) for graciously giving her time and intellectual insights to help with the statistical analysis. Without her support, the statistical analysis would not have been accomplished.

Sincere appreciation is also due to members of my Committee; Dr. Ibrahim Elnur and Dr. Ibrahim Nasr El Din for kindly providing their time and insights.

Finally, my sincerest thanks to my parents, my husband, my sisters and my daughter and son for enduring and giving their unreserved support to help me through the ups and downs of the way.
